Silver and the Conference.
Senator Allison makes the point that since the United States has gone into conference with other countries on the silver question no change should be made in our monetary system until that conference shall have concluded its labors.
It is very doubtful whether anything will come of the conference movement, but the conference has nothing to do with this country and its silver legislation. When an agreement shall have been reached we shall abide by it. Until then we must look out for ourselves.
If, as Senator Allison thinks, the repeal of the Sherman act would further depreciate silver, it may be that we could do nothing better in the way of bringing the other conferees to a point of reason than to repeal the act and let silver take its natural course. The longer we consent to bear the burden the less other countries will be disposed to bear a hand.

Hoo and whisky are still on the rise. It looks very much like a combine between these two great moral forces of society.

Harpooning the President-Elect.
The sharpest cut Mr. Cleveland has received came from the presidential electors of his own state. Assembled under the law to cast the ballots for President and Vice-President of the United States, they could not let the opportunity pass to slap Mr. Cleveland in the face with a resolution endorsing Murphy for United States senator.

They voted for Cleveland because they were pledged to do that. They endorsed Murphy, not so much because they are charmed by his ability and must have him or perish, but because Mr. Cleveland is known to be hostile to Murphy and has publicly announced that Murphy is not his "type."
This action on the part of the presidential electors shows how deep-rooted and intense is the hostility of the New York machine to Mr. Cleveland. It is another promise of a lively dance to come.

Report embarks Senator Price largely in the tin plate business. Are the hostilities coming in?

The Briggs Case.
After a large expenditure of time and money and feeling Rev. Dr. Briggs is acquitted of heresy. The presbytery does not say that he is right in his views. It declares he has not exceeded the liberty allowed by the Presbyterian church. Everybody expects to see the case appealed.

Suppose Dr. Briggs triumphs in the court of last resort—what then? The idea has been advanced by his friends, if not by himself, that if he is not a heretic those who are fighting him are heretics. Does this mean that Dr. Briggs will do some scalp-hunting himself?

The gain to the Presbyterian church by reason of all this warring is not plainly seen.

For the well clad, well fed and well housed yesterday was a superb winter's day.

Different Now.
Congressman Springer objects to the recent extension of the civil service rules by which several thousand post-office employees are placed under protection. We do not recall that Mr. Springer or any Democrat objected when President Cleveland, just before going out of office, did the same thing with regard to the railway mail service. Does it make some difference when your own ox is gored?

The bursting of a large fly-wheel in Pittsburgh did as much damage as an ordinary explosion of dynamite. A big wheel revolving at high speed is capable of making terrible havoc.

PRESIDENT CANNOT seem to be all right up to date. His is one of the heads they are trying to bring to the block, and it is by no means the least of them.

A POPULAR woman in Kansas refuses to give up the office of county superintendent to a Republican woman who has a majority on the face of the returns. This teaches that the Populists think they are in to stay, and that a woman can take a practical view of politics.

WHEELING welcomes the National Iron Roofing Association and hopes that its meeting here may be pleasant and profitable.

The Triumph of Murphy.
Mr. Murphy moves right on to the senate as though Mr. Cleveland had not pronounced against him. He is not a statesman and he never will be. He is a politician of inferior rank, but he has money and a "pull" and there is nothing to stop him. His elevation to the senate is a disgrace to his party and his state.

A seat in the senate of the United States is brought down to a pretty low level when a man of Murphy's stripe can go there without meeting in his party anything worthy the name of opposition.

The newspapers which helped to build up Murphy and the machine that gives him his triumph have protested against his election, but they might as well have whistled against the wind. They were not given so much as a respectful hearing.

Murphy goes to sit beside Hill and to give that wire-puller absolute control of the senate throttle so far as New York appointments are concerned.

If the West Virginia legislature had more offices to bestow there would be fewer sore heads in Charleston. The disappointed will have to cut and come again two years hence.

You Need It In Your Business.
The mind of man has conceived the Columbian Identification Bureau. For an initiation fee of two dollars this bureau will identify you anywhere, under any circumstances. You wear its indestructible aluminum tag, and there you are.

It matters not whether you die in the Rocky mountains or at sea, in the jungles of Africa or of New York, the sleuth hounds of the bureau are on your track. But it is not necessary to die before you come into the benefits of this scheme. You may be lost in a great city, may look upon the wine when it is red and be unable to identify yourself in a hurry. You have your tag and the bureau does the rest.

It is amazing that for all these centuries the world has got along without an identification bureau, but it has, after a fashion.

RECALLING what has happened in senatorial contests in West Virginia it is not safe to predict the outcome of the one now fairly beginning. It may result in the choice of some statesman imported from Timbuctoo for the purpose.

A Spirited Controversy.
Neither side of the Corrigan-Ireland controversy seeks to disguise the fact that there is a controversy between these distinguished Roman Catholic prelates, although neither of the principals consents to discuss the subject for publication. That the matter has gone so far and is being so hotly pursued as the publications on the subject would indicate, is hard to believe.

The report, accepted without question in some quarters, that Archbishop Ireland has sent, or caused to be sent, to Rome charges against Archbishop Corrigan, seems the least worthy of credence. The pope will begin to believe that the Roman Catholic church in the United States is very much alive.

MAYOR GOURLEY, of Pittsburgh, a straight-out Republican, has been nominated by the Democrats for city controller. If the Democrats of Pittsburgh had chosen their whole ticket from the Republican party they would have had a still better chance to win.

By the Delarte system women are taught to sit, to rise, to walk, to fall artistically. The course does not include sweeping, making bread and doing the family washing. These accomplishments are to be picked up at odd times.

PRINCE VICTOR NAPOLEON should have known better than to waste his time trying to draw the pope into his little scheme. The pope knows what there is of Prince Victor and his following, and he knows that they cannot restore the house of Bonaparte.

ANXIOUS inquiries are being made for Adlai. When last heard of he had started south. He may have encountered one of those Weaver eggs in a frozen condition. Adlai would not return to the haunts of men disgraced with egg.

ANOTHER French ministry has gone by the board, all on account of the Panama affair. These things come and go so easily in France that they mean nothing in particular. They serve to fill the country with ex-cabinet officers.

Boys should not insist on making coasting and sliding tracks on the sidewalks. It is dangerous and unlawful. We all like to see the youngsters have their sport, but not at too great cost to the public.

SENATORS should be able to discuss the silver question or any other public question without flying into a rage, but they can't. For a social club their organization does some very unsocial things.

WEST VIRGINIA'S DEVELOPMENT
In Its Relation to Politics—The Railroad as the Parent of Republican Majorities, To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sir:—Amidst all the confusion of theories and syllogisms on the tariff and other questions there are some facts of observation that have not had their relative importance in the contest for party supremacy in West Virginia. The Republican party has been called the "party of progress," and a glance at the two facts of railroad development and density of population in our state add proof to the assertion.

Let us follow the lines of the great railroads, and their feeders across the state, and observe the complexion of the counties through which they pass, and the astonishing fact will stare us in the face, that the counties through which the old railroads pass are almost entirely Republican, while those through which new railroads have lately been built are rapidly becoming so, and these in which there are no railroads are without exception Democratic. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad enters the state at Harper's Ferry, the Republican end of the Democratic stronghold of Jefferson, and then passes through the Republican counties of Berkeley, Morgan, and from there across the state to Taylor, through four counties, all of which are Republican but Hampshire. The live counties from Grafton to Parkersburg, including Taylor, are all strongly Republican.

From Grafton to Wheeling, including Taylor, there are five counties, but three of these are Democratic, one, the anomalous Wetzel, largely so, and the other two, Marion and Ohio, exceedingly close.

Barbour county, through which the Grafton & Greenbrier railroad passes, is Democratic by a very small majority. This road connects with the West Virginia Central & Pittsburgh, lately built, to the Democratic stronghold of Randolph. Tucker, on the W. Va. C. & P. road, has an exceedingly small Democratic majority, while Grant and Mineral are Republican.

The Camden system, beginning at Republican Clarksburg and formerly terminating in Republican Upshur as a narrow gauge, has broadened its gauge and is seeking from the close county of Lewis the Democratic fastnesses in the wilderness beyond.

Hancock, on the Pan-Handle and P. W. & Ky., is strongly Republican, while Brooke, on the P. W. & Ky. is Democratic by 97 votes.

Following the Ohio River railroad from Wheeling to Huntington we pass nine counties, five of them safely Republican.

From Huntington we trace the Chesapeake & Ohio up the navigable Kanawha river to Fayette, through four great and prosperous counties, all, but Cabell, being Republican; continuing through Summers, the corner of Monroe, and the south end of Greenbrier, all Democratic counties, the road reaches old Virginia.

We may look for a great change in the Republican strength of the three Democratic and two Republican counties along the lately built Norfolk & Western railroad.

Reno is the only county having railroad connections that has not been mentioned. The short road that penetrates it from the Ohio river will soon work some change in its Democratic majority of 172.

There are twelve counties, having no railway connections or communication by navigable streams at present, every one of which went Democratic at the last election. As an object lesson let us look at them; Hardy, Pendleton, Pocahontas, Webster, Nicholas, Clay, Gilmer, Wirt, Calhoun, Lincoln, Boone and Raleigh. Democracy or railroads, which?

We have carefully prepared a table of density of population in the counties of the state, and the same striking argument presents itself to us, that these counties having the largest populations in proportion to their area are mainly Republican; and these counties having the smaller population to the square mile are almost entirely Democratic. We will give you the table and let you work out the problem yourself. You will observe that in the first twenty-seven counties, one-half of the whole number, that there are but eleven Democratic counties, and with few exceptions their majorities are exceedingly close. In the latter half it will be seen that there are only seven Republican counties.

Table of density of population of counties in order of population to the square mile:

Ohio.....	246.39	Barbour.....	35.38
Marshall.....	85.29	Wirt.....	82.45
Brooke.....	83.29	Nicholas.....	12.91
Taylor.....	80.99	Preston.....	31.40
Cabell.....	78.65	Calhoun.....	31.35
Wood.....	76.20	Fayette.....	28.58
Netter.....	62.00	Monroe.....	10.67
Hancock.....	61.14	Monroe.....	27.02
Mason.....	63.50	Lincoln.....	26.62
Jefferson.....	62.21	Norman.....	22.48
Hickory.....	58.44	Braxton.....	22.46
Pleasant.....	59.26	Trucker.....	18.91
Harrison.....	48.70	Hampshire.....	18.12

Mineral.....	40.28	Webster.....	10.62
Mercer.....	40.00	Boone.....	10.67
Tyler.....	39.50	Wyoming.....	9.46
Lewis.....	39.78	Hardy.....	9.42
Wetzel.....	38.21	Dowell.....	8.48
Upshur.....	36.82	Pocahontas.....	8.30

Now the question that presents itself, if, shall we have new industries, railroads, and the ordinary comforts of life, or more West Virginia Democracy?

The argument may be continued indefinitely by a review of the industries of the Republican counties, and a table showing the parallel development of Republicanism and prosperity. While West Virginia is cumbered with wild-cat paper railroads, it has made wonderful advancement in railroad building, but we still have thousands of miles of unoccupied territory craving development. As soon as our people catch this spirit of enterprise their policies will not partake so much of history as of progress. Instead of looking backward to ante-bellum days they will look forward, and find that their minds can be developed, their ideas expanded and their country improved without trespassing on "constitutional rights," that there are a great many things that are not "unconstitutional" that our daddies had not dreamed of in their philosophy.
